

1:15

ktla.com

local • news • classifieds

headlines: fire in south land ... earthquake in Guatemala ... accident on the 5

A spokesman for El Salvador's Red Cross branch told The Associated Press that the quake had been felt throughout the country, sending people fleeing their homes in the capital, but there had been no immediate reports of injuries or serious damage.

Image furnished by Guatemala's Conred emergency management agency showing damage on a street in San Marcos from the magnitude-7.4 earthquake that killed at least 29 people in the Central American country on Wednesday.

Survivors by radio and social media talked of widespread landslides and people trapped.